

Potential Community Partners and Locations for Parent Outreach Activities in Diverse Communities

This list is not intended to be exhaustive, but rather to provide examples of community organizations that may collaborate with you in your effort to reach parents of young children from diverse communities who have concerns about their child's development. While this list targets specific Twin Cities metro-area organizations, many of the organizations may also provide information and referral to local resources in Greater Minnesota. The category headings in the list serve as a checklist of the types of organizations and locations you may want to consider in your local community outreach.

Ads distributed through minority-owned media, neighborhood newspapers, school papers, or informal print circulars, depending on the neighborhood, can be very effective ways of integrating into the community.
Asking for table space at Cinco de Mayo celebrations, pow-wows, or other cultural events or wellness fairs can also be useful.
